From marketing to sales, costs to pricing, surveying to quoting and how to shine through your customer service - All elements of this Module are what we have built our reputation on and are all approved by Trading Standards.

You will be taken through the basics of how to get your business off to a flying start with invaluable information and advice covering all the areas that matter.

We will take you through how to break down costs and charges efficiently, how to write up a quotation and the right language to use in your paperwork so not only you but your customers have a clear understanding of the potential job at hand and what is to be expected.

Our in house designer will create your own resin bound portfolio complete with your own branding throughout for you to take with you when out quoting customers, filled with all the information and answers to questions you may be asked. This portfolio also includes images of resin bound surfaces Rhino have installed in the past as examples for you to show potential customers, you have full permission from ourselves to use our photos until you have built up your own image bank of work you have done yourself.

No branding? No problem! We can design and create a branding for you including a logo that includes your company colours to make you a noticeable brand within the industry.

Not only do you have a full days training packed with information but you also have the security of our continued support and advice afterwards.

Lunch and refreshments are provided on the day.

We are extremely proud of our reputation at Rhino and believe our knowledge within the resin bound industry is invaluable.
